

Abstract

The invention relates to the detection of oxidation of carbon-containing fibers or fiber bundles embedded in a 5 nonconductive or semiconducting ceramic matrix in composites wherein use is made of the eddy current method.